About All4Maternity

Enabling learning, sharing and caring for all.

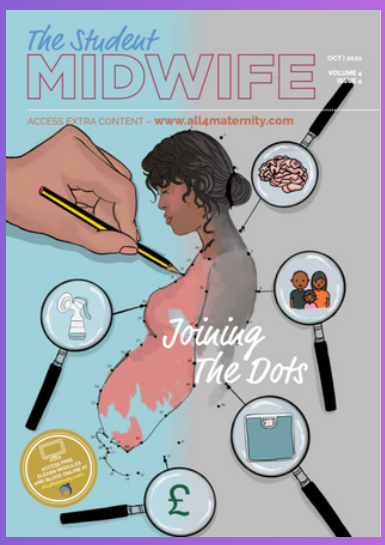

All4Maternity is a world-leading, practice-focused online learning, sharing and caring platform supporting midwives, students and maternity staff to strengthen and sustain optimal personal and professional wellbeing, whilst offering optimal care for all childbearing women, people, newborns and families.

With maternity education, leadership and practice expertise, All4Maternity is committed to supporting the learning, sharing and caring needs of all midwives, perinatal care users and providers. We have experience in developing midwifery education content and leading education, webinar and communities of practice. We also publish three practice-focused journals; The Practising Midwife, The Practising Midwife Australia Edition and The Student Midwife journal. Our platform includes over 50 learning modules, multiple blogs and podcasts.

We are committed to working in collaboration with others, to enhance outcomes for all who work across maternity and neonatal services.

Hannah Tizard, RM, PMA, PGCertEd, FHEA - Lead midwife All4M
Hannah is a midwife and previous senior midwifery lecturer. Hannah's mission is to empower students and midwives to provide personalised and holistic care that upholds the human rights of women, birthing people and families. Through her work at All4Maternity and All4Birth, she aims to create learning environments that are inclusive and responsive to the diverse demographic, societal, and cultural needs of midwives, students and communities. This involves the effective translation of knowledge to create a learning environment that is inclusive and responsive to everyone's needs. As a Professional Midwifery Advocate, she leads compassionately, with respect to support the wellbeing of midwives. Hannah's values of creativity and accountability inspire her to innovate and collaborate authentically. One of her proudest accomplishments is founding the award-winning Blood to Baby campaign, which highlights the importance of physiological transition in newborn through optimal cord clamping.

Neesha Ridley, RM, MSc, PGCert Ed, FHEA
Neesha Ridley has been qualified for over 20 years working across practice, leadership, governance and education. Before joining All4Maternity as an Education and Development Lead Midwife, Neesha had roles within Higher Education as a Senior Midwifery Lecturer, at UCLan and as a workforce lead for Health Education England and more recently NHS England, North West region.
In her role as workforce lead, Neesha supported the process of recruitment and transition of International Midwives across the North-West region. Neesha is passionate about safe, quality, midwifery education, practice, leadership, and research and has been involved in strengthening equity, diversity and cultural safety across midwifery education and practice.

Anna Byrom, RM PhD PGCert Ed NTFS
Anna has been a midwife for over 18 years. With a passion for relational, humanised and rights-based midwifery care, she has worked across the UK as a case-load, team and birth centre midwife. She has experience leading infant feeding services in a local maternity unit, implementing the Unicef UK Baby Friendly Initiative. For the past 11 years, Anna has been working as an educator and researcher leading higher education under- and post-graduate programmes. In 2019 she completed her PhD with the Maternal and Infant Nutrition and Nurture [MAINN] unit at UCLan. She is a member of the Unicef UK Baby Friendly Qualifications Board and Designation Committee. She was awarded a National Teaching Fellowship Award in 2019 for her contribution to midwifery education leadership.
